February 3, 2014 (San José, CA)—MACLA/Movimiento de Arte y Cultura Latino Americana presents Latino Art Now! 16th Annual Art Auction + Exhibition, from March 5 through April 26, 2014. The auction includes work by established contemporary artists, including Maria Magdalena Campos Pons, Luis González-Palma, Erika Harrsch, and Sam Rodriguez. It also showcases prominent Bay Area artists including Viviana Paredes, Consuelo Jimenez-Underwood, Pablo Soto Campoamor, Nora Raggio and Juan Carlos Quintana. This year's group includes award recipients from the Joan Mitchell Foundation, the Ford Foundation, and the Richard Diebenkorn Teaching Fellowship, as well as artists who have exhibited at the SF MoMA, the MoMA, the Venice Biennale, the Palacio de Bellas Artes de México, the San Jose Museum of Art, and the Cantor Center for Visual Arts. These and other artists have generously donated selections from their current work, including paintings, light installations, sculpture, collage, mixed-media work, and photography, reflecting the breadth of visual arts media for which MACLA is known.

The auction welcomes both experienced and first-time collectors and consists of a silent auction at the gallery and a live auction for selected work on April 26, 2014. Auction proceeds support MACLA's programs in the visual arts, performing & literary arts, youth arts education; and, community development through the arts, which reach over 30,000 people annually.

Related Event: Collecting Art Panel
